

ABSTRACT

A signal indicative of cardiac contractions of a patient's heart is produced, as the patient's heart is paced using different sets of pacing interval parameters. Measures of pulse amplitude are obtained from the signal. Pacing interval optimization is performed based on the measures of pulse amplitude.